Every Month Near Death.

Foster, Ark.—Mrs. Fannie Ellis, of Foster, says: "I was sick for seven years, and half the time could not stand on my feet. Every month I was near death. I tried Cardui, and in two months, I was cured, and am now stout and healthy. My friends all ask me now what cured me. It is a mild, vegetable tonic remedy adapted especially to relieve and cure the common womanly ailments. It relieves womanly pains and restores womanly strength. Try Cardui. Advertisement.

Unusual Offer To Our Readers.

For a limited time, and subject to withdrawal after 30 days, the well-known publishing house of the J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia, founded in 1792, offers to the readers of this paper a 12 months' subscription to "Lippincott's Magazine" and a year's subscription to the Kentuckian, both for $3.00. This is the price of a twelve months' subscription to "Lippincott's" alone. Additional to obtaining every issue of this paper for a year, our readers will receive in "Lippincott's," 12 great complete novels by popular authors, 105 short stories, crisp, entertaining, original 45 timely articles from the pens of masters, and each month some excellent poems with the right sentiment, and "Walnuts and Wine," the most popular humor section in America. To obtain this extraordinary offer prompt action is necessary. Remit to J. B. Lippincott Company, Washington Square, Phila., Pa. Advertisement.

ASSOCIATE EVIL AND BEAUTY

Through the Ages, Feminine Loveliness Has Been Regarded as an Enemy of the Soul.

It is curious how, from time immemorial, man seems to have associated the idea of evil with beauty, and shrunk from it with a sort of ghastly fear, while, at the same time, drawn to it by force of its hypnotic attraction, comments Richard Le Gallienne in the Smart Set. Strangely enough, beauty has been regarded as the most dangerous enemy of the soul, and the powers of darkness that are supposed to lie in wait for that frail and fluttering Psyche, so precious and apparently so perishable, are usually represented as taking shapes of beguiling loveliness—Lamias, Loreleis, wood nymphs, and witches with blue flowers for their eyes. Lurking in its most innocent forms, the grim aesthetic has affected to find a haven of conception, and whenever any reformation is afoot, it is always beauty that is made the first victim, whether it takes the form of a statue, a stained glass window or a hair ribbon.

"Homeliness is next to godliness," though not officially stated as an article of the Christian creed, has been one of the most active of all Christian tenets. It has always been easier far for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven than for a gloriously beautiful woman. Presumably such a one might be in danger of corrupting the saints, somewhat unaccustomed to such apparitions.

Farmers, Take Notice.

BALKED AT DIGGING WORMS

English Governess Felt She Had a Right to Draw the Line Somewhere.

Governesses in England seem to be required to do almost everything from sewing on buttons to guiding small charges through the mazes of primary French, but the dry records of the courts revealed a governess recently who objected to doing at least one duty imposed by her employers—digging up earthworms for the delectation of a six-year-old boy, says the New York Tribune correspondent.

This independent governess, Miss Gertrude Macdonell, sued Dr. Segwick of Kingston for $17.50 (which, by the way, was what she received for a month's services).

Miss Macdonell said that Mrs. Segwick believed her boy showed indications of being a naturalist, and it was essential that he should have somebody who could lead him in that direction.

"He always showed a preference for butterflies and beetles, and I could tell him about those, but I don't think it was part of my duty as a nursery governess to dig up worms and put the squirming things on a hook."

The judge thought the plaintiff was right about the earthworms and awarded the sum she asked for.

Must Be Left Untouched.

The "Treasure of the Lowly" is the supreme undiscovered treasure, that is why Maeterlinck writes of it with a golden pen. Bring the jewel into the market, let the lapidary take it from its mysterious matrix and cut it with his remorseless tools, fit it into a king's crown, a lady's ring or the cover of a silver box and somehow the wonder vanishes. The crowd may stare, but no one goes into raptures any more—Indian Messenger.

Physical Culture in Old Egypt.

That physical culture was a fact with the fashionable ladies of the courts of the Pharaohs is another phase of Egyptian life revealed by the rock pictures of the "Mother of Civilization." The more we moderns dig into the buried past of the Pharaohs the more moderate grows the estimation of our wonderful progress.
